

Contents

1. Ethics in consumer buying .....	1
1.1. An introduction .....	1
1.2. The study of determinants of ethical consumption .....	4
1.2.1 The articulation of the book .....	8
1.3. Conclusions .....	13
2. The influence of moral norms and self-identity in the choice of organic food products.....	15
2.1. Introduction .....	15
2.2. Organic food products, moral norms and self-identity .....	17
2.2.1. The nature of organic food products and organic agriculture.....	17
2.2.2. Motives for organic food purchase .....	18
2.2.3. The identification of determinants influencing organic food purchase: The Theory of planned behavior and its extension .....	21
2.2.3.1. The Theory of planned behavior and the purchase of organic food products.....	24
2.3. Aim and objectives .....	28
2.3.1. Research hypotheses .....	28
2.4. Methodology and results.....	29
2.4.1. The pilot study .....	30
2.4.2. The main study.....	30
2.4.3. Results.....	32
2.5. Effects for consumer psychology and marketing strategies .....	36
2.5.1. Discussion .....	36
2.5.2. Managerial implications.....	38
2.5.3. Limitations and future research.....	41

3. Effects of product personality, moral norms and moral disengagement on the intention to buy organic food products.....	43
3.1. Introduction .....	43
3.2. Determinants of intention to buy organic food products .....	44
3.2.1. The consumer of organic food products .....	45
3.2.2. The Prospect method.....	46
3.2.2.1. The Five-factor model of personality .....	48
3.2.2.2. The Theory of planned behavior .....	48
3.2.3. Moral antecedents in the purchasing of organic food products .....	50
3.2.3.1. Moral disengagement .....	51
3.3. Methodology.....	52
3.3.1. Research objectives.....	52
3.3.2. Procedure .....	54
3.3.2.1. The pilot study.....	54
3.3.2.2. The main study .....	55
3.4. Results .....	56
3.4.1. Determinants of the purchase intention of organic food products .....	56
3.4.2. Results of the moral disengagement scale .....	60
3.4.3. The Prospect method.....	61
3.4.3.1. The latent dimensions of organic food product image .....	61
3.4.3.2. The influence of the image dimensions on the determinants of intention .....	63
3.5. General discussion.....	66
3.6. Implications and future research.....	69
3.7. Conclusions .....	71
4. The impact of ethical self-identity and safety concerns on attitudes and purchasing intentions of organic food products ...	73
4.1. Introduction .....	73
4.2. Antecedents of organic food purchase intentions.....	75
4.3. Purpose of the study and methodological framework.....	78
4.4. Methodology.....	80
4.4.1. Sampling .....	80
4.4.2. Measures .....	80

4.5. Results .....	82
4.5.1. Reliability analysis.....	82
4.5.2. Descriptive analysis .....	83
4.5.3. Hypotheses testing .....	84
4.6. Discussion and implications .....	88
4.7. Limitations and future research .....	91
4.8. Conclusions .....	92
5. Effects of attitude and personal values on the purchase intention of genetically modified food products.....	95
5.1. Introduction .....	95
5.2. Theoretical models to analyze cultural differences .....	97
5.3. The nature of attitude towards GM food .....	100
5.4. Aim and objectives .....	102
5.5. Methodology.....	105
5.5.1. Sampling procedure .....	105
5.5.2. Measures and questionnaire .....	106
5.6. Results .....	107
5.6.1. Reliability analysis.....	107
5.6.2. Descriptive analysis .....	108
5.6.3. Hypotheses testing .....	108
5.7. Discussion.....	111
5.8. Implications .....	113
5.9. Limitations and future research .....	115
5.10. Conclusions .....	116
6. Determinants of consumers' acceptance of fuels from biological materials and hydrogen transportation technologies ...	119
6.1. Introduction .....	119
6.2. Bio-fuels and hydrogen transportation technologies .....	121
6.2.1. Bio-fuels in the transportation industry .....	122
6.2.2. Hydrogen technologies in the transportation industry ....	125
6.3. Study One: Beliefs determining acceptance of bio-fuels.....	128
6.3.1. Aims and objectives.....	128
6.3.2. Sampling .....	128
6.3.3. Procedure .....	129
6.3.4. Results of Study One .....	129

6.4. Study Two: Beliefs determining acceptance of hydrogen transportation technologies.....	135
6.4.1. Aims and objectives.....	135
6.4.2. Sampling.....	136
6.4.3. Procedure.....	136
6.4.4. Results of Study Two.....	137
6.5. General discussion.....	143
6.5.1. Acceptance of bio-fuels in the transportation industry ...	143
6.5.2. Acceptance of hydrogen in the transportation industry ..	145
6.5.3. Conclusions.....	146
References.....	149
Authors.....	175
Index.....	179